

Weekly Project Progress Report – 3

This week, I worked with HTML & CSS. I learnt a new technique called flexbox which helps you align and center elements easily. I learnt transitions using CSS which is good for animations.

I have to modify this a lot but flexbox made everything streamlined which makes it easy to manage everything. Below is the image of what I have done this week. I will be adding more decision factors to this web page and create a form in the customized report tab next week.

